

8 Myths and Realities About Adoption

Adoptive Families

FACTS:

- ▶ As of the 2010 Census, there were 1.53 million children under age 18 in America who joined their family through adoption, 2.4 percent of all children in that age range the U.S.
- ▶ In the U.S., there are 5 million people today who were adopted. More than 70,000 children are adopted each year.
- ▶ 40% of all Americans have a personal connection to adoption; 65-84% view it favorably.

MYTH There are very few babies being placed for adoption.

REALITY About 18,000 U.S.-born infants are adopted each year—more than twice the number of international adoptions yearly.

MYTH Adoption is outrageously expensive, out of reach for most families.

REALITY Adoption is often no more expensive than giving birth. Costs to adopt domestically average $30,000, before the Adoption Tax Credit ($13,190 in 2014) and benefits that many employers offer.

MYTH It takes years to complete an adoption.

REALITY The average time span of adoption is one to two years. The majority of domestic adoptive families who respond to annual surveys by Adoptive Families completed their adoptions in less than a year.

MYTH Birth parents can show up at any time to reclaim their child.

REALITY Once an adoption is finalized, the adoptive family is recognized as the child's family by law. Despite the publicity surrounding a few high-profile cases, post-adoption revocations are extremely rare.

MYTH Birth parents are all troubled teens.

REALITY Most birth parents today are over 18, but lack the resources to care for a child. It is generally with courage and love for their child that they terminate their parental rights.

MYTH Adopted children are more likely to be troubled than birth children.

REALITY Research shows that adoptees are as well-adjusted as their non-adopted peers. There is virtually no difference in psychological functioning between them.

MYTH Open adoption causes problems for children.

REALITY Adoptees are not confused by contact with their birth parents. They benefit from the increased understanding that their birth parents gave them life but their forever families take care of and nurture them.

MYTH Parents can't love an adopted child as much as they would a biological child.

REALITY Love and attachment are not the result of nor guaranteed by biology. The intensity of bonding and depth of emotion are the same, regardless of how the child joined the family.
